BinckBank offers with eXimius a unique Portfolio Management Service to asset advisors

Binck Professional Services (BPS) and eXimius join forces in offering a portfolio management service to independent asset advisors, private and retail banks. The eXimius business solution will be connected in real-time to the BPS platform offering straight through processing (STP) front to back. This new state of the art platform will be attractive for asset advisors, especially in the high affluent and high net worth individuals segments.

By connecting this new decision support module to the BPS platform, it will enable BinckBank to provide a hosted full service solution for individual asset advisors in the areas of IT-management, operations, system maintenance and interfacing of corresponding banking systems. As a result individual asset advisors can manage more efficiently their business processes and better manage their clients and associated risks. This new BPO-service is expected to become available mid 2013.

Joost Walgemoed, Managing Director Professional Services:

"As a spin of this joint effort both individual asset advisors and private banks will get a state of the art portfolio management platform at relatively low cost. Our customers will benefit from the extended functionalities with regard to portfolio management tools, CRM, compliance and reporting facilities."

Peter Schramme, CEO eXimius

"We are extremely excited to team up with BinckBank, helping them to offer this next generation platform for independent advisors and large financial institutions. These firms are asking for better performance analysis within acceptable risk levels, driven by increased regulation and market volatility. This combination of BinckBank and eXimius offers a unique, fully integrated best in class solution."
